

This is a limitation of competition. The company is providing some competition that the regular radio stations cant keep up with. It is of no fault but their own for following traditional norms with radio broadcasting. For those that have RDS radios, the systems are not even used to their fullest potential, at least in the Detroit, MI area. Most stations dont list what the songs are or whats going on. I think its good to have XM radios extended features of instant weather and traffic. You pay for the service just like you would America Online or other internet service, you should expect additional ammenities with it such as instant weather/traffic.
